Local Young Man Was Shot In Attempt To Rob Bank

Albert Bates of this city, is lying at the point of death in the Toledo, O. hospital, with a gun shot wound in his side and arm, as a result of his attempt to assist in the robbery of the National bank at Perrysburg, O., Saturday.

Bates in company with two other young men planned the robbery and securing an automobile they made their way to the town. A telephone operator who overheard their plans of the robbery, sent out the alarm and soon a posse was formed, and when the three men appeared they were surrounded by men with shot guns and revolvers. Realizing that they were surrounded the men opened fire and shots were exchanged for over a half hour.

When the smoke of the battle had cleared away, Bates was found lying besides the automobile suffering from two gun shot wounds. He was rushed to the hospital and is now under the care of a physician. Following his recovery he will be placed under arrest and may serve a long term in the Ohio penitentiary for his attempt at robbery.

The young man is well known here and comes of a respected family. His mother forwarded him money to start in business at Monongahela, but he lost it all in gambling and was placed under arrest for stealing from his partner. He was implicated in the passing of worthless checks here about a year ago and left town suddenly and his whereabouts have not been known until the report of his daring escapade was made known.

Shields For Sheriff

John E. Shields, candidate for Sheriff of Westmoreland county, is here today in the interest of his campaign. In his former political campaigns, Mr Shields has always considered Monessen a stronghold, and in the contest for county commissioner four years ago, he was next to high man on the ticket. He appreciates this friendly feeling and this magnificient support coming from one of the county's labor strongholds. Mr. Shields is making a general campaign for the office of Sheriff and expects to meet as many of the voters as possible, but should he fail to greet every voter personally, he makes an appeal for the assistance at this time, promising in the future as in the past to see that every man gets a square deal from the sheriff's office. Mr. Shields has possibly gone through more to defend the right of the toiler than any other man known to the public. In his stand between right and wrong, he is determined and fearless and in the life of the laboring man he is a brother. Judgeinging by the warm reception accorded him while here, Mr. Shields will get a big vote in Monessen and throughout this section. His strength in the race is conceded by his most bitter opponents. He expects to spend the entire day here and will leave for his home in Greensburg this evening.

Suffrage Speaker Here This Evening

The ladies of Monessen who are interested in the Equal Franchise movement will have a meeting this evening at 8 o'clock in the Jefferson school building. All interested persons, men and women are invited to be present, whether or not they approve of the movement.

Miss Leona Huntzinger, one of the state organizers, will be present this evening and give an interesting address on the subject, telling just why women should be given a vote. She will tell why the women of Pennsylvania are asking for enfranchisement. The meeting is open to all and the public is cordially invited to be present.

At The Star

William Farnum, [illegible] best salaried screen artist in the [illegible], star of The Plunder, Bondman, etc. will be seen tonight in "The New Governor" at the Star theatre, for the first time at these prices, ten cents. Phillip Morrow grows to manhood in the belief that the blood in his veins is the most aristocratic in the South. Morrow is persuaded to run for governor. He deciedes to sign a Prohibition bill which will mean the ruin of a certain man's business. This man visits Morrow. He has found papers proving that Morrow has negro blood in him. Morrow, undaunted makes the Prohibition bill a law and resigns his office and sacrifices his love to devote his life to the uplift of the negro.

Muse After Votes

William G. Muse, of West Newton, candidate for county commissioner, spent the day in town campaigning. Mr. Muse was greeted here by a host of friends who have declared their intentions of supporting him for the Republican nomination for the office he is now filling with so much credit to himself and the court through which he received his appointment.

This is the first time in his life that Mr. Muse has been a candidate for a county office and while he has been a life long Republican, he has never before asked a gift at the hands of his party. He comes before the people at this time with a ripe experience as an engineer and three years of active experience as a county commissioner. The most critical have not dared to find fault with his administration. There is no fault to find. He has always been ready to conserve the interests of the taxpayers and render a service expected of a commissioner. He has acquainted himself with the duties of the office and he has been on the job all the time.

Those who support Mr. Muse can do so with the assurance that no man possesses better qualifications or is more able to fill the office of county commissioner.

Automobiles And Garage Destroyed By Fire Saturday

In a fire which destroyed one building and damaged two others, about 10 automobiles owned by the most prominent men of California were burned about 9 o'clock Saturday morning. The fire originated in the garage of W. T. Duff when the jitney buss blew up, setting fire to the structure. The flames quickly spread to the Bailey theatre adjoining and to a dwelling house in the rear of the garage.

Although the theatre and dwelling house were on fire, neither was damaged to any great extent. The firemen arrived promptly and their efforts resulted in averting a more disastrous conflagration.

At the time of the fire in the garage which is the only one in town, was filled with machines. The fire spread so rapidly that only two cars were saved.

From some unknown cause, the jitney buss which runs between California and Daisytown, blew up, while standing in front of the garage, set fire to a big beer truck and ignited a large gasoline tank, causing a heavy explosion and scattering the flames in all directions.

In a few minutes the garage was a mass of flames and the automobiles which had been stored in the building were all afire. All efforts to reach them proved futile.

All that saved the surrounding buildings from destruction was the fact that the garage was a one-story cement building in which the flames were partly confined. The garage was insured by Mr. Duff. The loss is estimated at about $35,000.

What people like about Ben Steel is that he is the sheriff. No one is able to dictate to him and no person can use him. He looks after the business of the office and makes his returns to the county of commissions as the law provides. The records of his office show that in three years and six months he has turned in to the county $16,000, after salaries and expenses were paid. Mr. Steel is campaigning on his record as a public official and he is meeting with good success.

Little Talks on Health and Hygiene by Samuel G. Dixon, M. D. LL. D., Commissioner of Health

ANCIENT WISDOM & MODERN FOOLISHNESS

In every age, in every nation, there has been a class of individuals who objected to all innovations solely on the ground that they were new. Everybody numbers one or more of these objectors among his acquaintances.

Preventive medicine is referred to these days as a new science and so it is but many of the measures used today are hoary with age and have been sanctioned by sanitarians of the din centuries. The Scriptures hold evidence of this and now and again the historian may mark a passage which adds confirmation.

The care of water supplies is one of the things which the opponents of modern sanitation most frequently belittle and which the public health officials continually recommend. To those bold objectors who blatantly proclaim their superiority to precautionary measures, it is interesting to quote from Heroditus "The Father of History," who wrote some twenty-three odd centuries ago of Cyrus the Persian king.

"Cyrus made war against the son of this queen, who bore the name of his father, Labynetus, and had the Empire of Assyria. Now when the great King leads his army in person, he carries with him from home provisions well prepared and cattle; and he takes with him water from the River Choaspes, which flows past Susa, of which alone, and no other, the King drinks. A great number of four wheel carriages, drawn by mules, carry the water of this River, after it has been boiled in silver vessels, and follow him from place to place wherever he marches."

Fortunately the majority of people heed the warnings given when it becomes necessary to boil water from private or public supplies or take other steps to insure its safety. So long however as the dissenters continue their senseless opposition, we shall continue to have an unnecessary amount of typhoid. Not alone among the individuals who set themselves above the acquired knowledge of scientific investigators, but also among the unfortunate people who permit their better judgment to be swayed by the positive assertions of the ignorant.

Sporting Notes

The football season will start September 25 this year.

Thirty days of horse racing is an attraction that has brought some of the best thoroughbreds to San Francisco for the opening today.

The auto dare-devils have a second melon to eat today at Elgin, where the $6,000 purse and the Elgin trophy is hung up for a 301 mile race.

The San Francisco regatta events for today include races for schooners and handicap races for yawls.

The next heavyweight bout of importance is the match between Frank Moran of Pittsburgh and Jim Coffey, Ireland's hope, set for October 19 at New York.

Mike Gibbons, who is supposed to get $15,000 for his share in the bout with Packey McFarland next month, was formerly a tinsmith in St. Paul, at 12½ cents for a half hour's work.

Jack Barry is making a great showing with the Red Sox, duplicating Eddie Collins' work with the White Sox. Pity both can't be in the worl's series.

The Clarity of Macaulay.

"Macaulay never wrote an obscure sentence in his life," said John Morley, and this is partly due to his exact use of words. There is never any doubt about his meaning. Macaulay began the use of Latin words at an early age. When four and a half years old he was asked if he had got over the toothache, to which question came this reply: "The agony is abated."—J. F. Rhodes in "Historical Essays."

When You Can't Smoke

that's the time to chew FIVE BROTHERS. When you can smoke—that's the time to choose FIVE BROTHERS.

This pure Southern Kentucky tobacco is the great favorite with men of vigor. It is full-bodied and satisfying. It gets its pleasant richness from the natural aging we give it for three to five years. And that is what keeps its quality up, always the same, no matter what the year's crop may be.

FIVE BROTHERS

Pipe Smoking Tobacco

has always given prime pleasure to manly men. A FIVE BROTHERS man never switches to another brand; he knows he's losing time and pleasure on a needless experiment. Many brands come and go into the discard—while FIVE BROTHERS holds old friends and makes new ones every day.

There's a snappy taste to FIVE BROTHERS that policemen and other big fellows like. It's got that man-size quality about it; not one of those insipid, next-to-nothing tobaccos—but the big king-brand for the he-men on the force.

A week's trial will make you a permanent user of FIVE BROTHERS—go to it today.

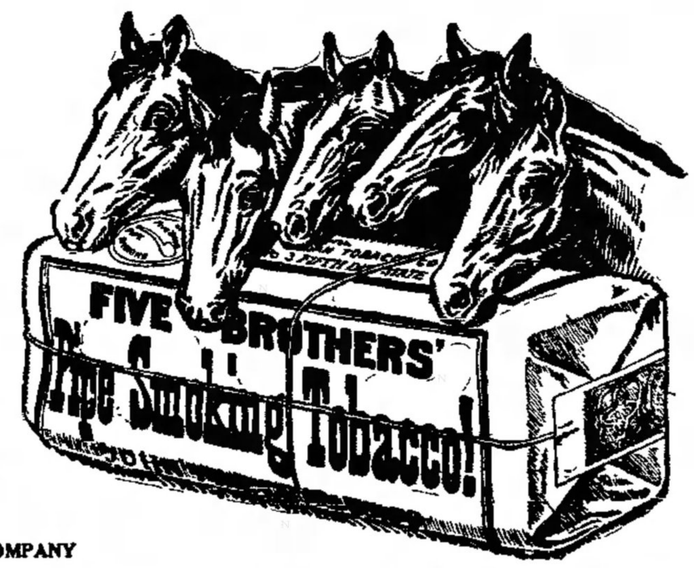
FIVE BROTHERS is sold everywhere.



THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

Youngest Leading Lady in World Tells of Her Experiences in Support of Selig Movie Stars

"You See? He Does Not Love You!"

By GRACE DARMOND.

My home is in Chicago. One day about two years ago I walked into the Chicago studios of the Selig Polyscope company. The studios are not so very far away from my parents' home. Maybe that was the reason I walked into them. The superintendent of the studios needed 'extra people.' I had visited the studios in curiosity; I remained to take part in a Selig feature film. That was the beginning of my motion picture career. One must protograph well in order to attain any degree of success in motion picture work. I was told that I photographed well. My profile is clear and my features are adaptable to the animated screen. I was asked to take other minor parts. I liked the work—there is a fascination about it—and I accepted.

That was about two years ago. Today I have the honor of being assigned to many important roles in Selig Red Seal plays. I have assumed leading feminine parts in "A Texas Steer," 'The Millionaire Baby," "The House of a Thousand Candles," "A Black Sheep," and other productions which have won further fame for the Selig company.

I have been asked the reason for my rapid success in a difficult profession. The only answer that I can give is 'hard work.' There were other incidents that also contributed to my success. One of the most important is that Col. William N. Selig, president of the company which bears his name, gives everyone a fair opportunity. He appreciates close attention to work and loyalty on the part of his employees. I was fortunate enough to please him and the directors and was assigned to more important roles as time passed, and I gave my entire time and thought to them.

Perhaps there is another qualification connected with my promotion that should be mentioned here. I had had stage experience. I appeared in the spoken drama when five years of age, taking the title role of Editha's Burglar.' Later I appeared in stock companies. This experience in the art of acting was certainly of untold benefit to me.

I have been told that I am the youngest leading woman in motion pictures. Maybe I am, but I have earned the parts I play. Working in motion pictures is not pastime—it is hard work. In motion pictures, as elsewhere, work counts.

Long hours fall to those who engage in motion picture acting. They report at a studio at a certain hour in the morning. They do not leave until a certain hour. Their day's work is just like a day's work in any other occupation in life. In warm weather the sun beats through the glass enclosure of the studio and the thermometer sometimes registers 130 degrees. Perhaps in this warm atmosphere one must be compelled to appear as a character heavily bundled in clothing, and you can imagine one's discomfiture.

There are many recompenses, also, and I think, on the whole, that the work is ever so much more enjoyable than the speaking stage. Girls who wish to enter motion pictures, however, should pause and think over the fact that they are embarking on a career—a branch of art which requires talent, intelligence and hard work. There are many girls who feel that if they could only appear before a camera they would be an instantaneous success, yet who would go to a business college for many months in order to become a stenographer. It stands to reason if one considers that preparation for such a position is necessary that ever so much more time must be devoted to learning an art which entertains millions of people daily. From my own experience I do not feel justified in advising any girl to try to become a screen actress.

There are times, of course, when I enjoy the excitement of being a player. An example of this was during the filming of the big Selig Red Seal play "The House of a Thousand Candles," at the Chicago studio of the Selig Polyscope Company. Doubtless most of my readers heard of the big car strike in Chicago, but few of them knew what havoc it played with the motion picture producers. We had many players who were working in the "Loop," Chicago theatrical center, and as the studio is quite a way from this place, and there was no auto service, Mr. William N. Selig ordered a huge truck in which all the players were taken to the theaters in which they were working.

There were other excursions, too, during the time I was appearing in "The House of a Thousand Candles." One of these was made to find a house which would correspond to the director's ideal "house" in which the "thousand candles" were supposed to be. All the players who had friends with homes which might serve the purpose told the director about them, and one day we all got into a big touring car and started our search. We covered almost all of the city of Chicago, and when we were all beginning to despair of ever finding an ideal "House of a Thousand Candles," the director suddenly called the chauffeur to stop. We were in a part of Wheaton, a suburb of Chicago, and none of us could see any 'house" that might prove available. The director, however, made us all get out of the machine and tramp up a hill. As we rounded a curve in the road we saw beyond a clump of trees, which had been obstructing our view, the exact "House of a Thousand Candles" we had all been hoping for.

When we returned to the studio to take the interior scenes, we found that we needed many more times as many candlesticks for the "big set" as our property room had. We started a search for candlesticks and candelabra, and gathered them from every conceivable source—our own homes, homes of our friends, small shops near the studio and large stores in the business district of Chicago. After getting them all together we sorted them out and the director arranged them about the 'set." The effect is beautiful in my estimation, and I am sure that those who see 'The House of a Thousand Candles' will agree with me.

Mr. Harry Mestayer and Mr. John Charles, who have the two leading male roles, and Mr. Backus, who plays the 'character" lead, were all cast in parts which fitted them perfectly and enjoyed the work fully as much as I did. The other players were also at their best, so we went through the entire production like a well oiled machine. Mr. Heffron, our director, kept us all working together, and while no exciting accident happened to distinguish it from other pictures in which I have worked, I shall remember "The House of a Thousand Candles" for a long, long time, because of the pleasure I experienced in working in it.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

CALIFORNIA BAR IN ANNUAL CONVENTION

San Francisco, Aug. 23—The California Bar Association opened here today its sixth annual convention President Peter W. Meldin of the American Bar Association, is expected to speak, and former President William H. Taft will also be heard before the convention winds up on Wednesday.

Donora Outing

Ample entertainment will be provided next Saturday for what is expected will prove one of the largest crowds that have visited Eldora this season. The occasion will be that of the annual outing of the Donora workingmen. Park amusements will be operated from early morning until late at night and then a special program of events will be carried out, beginning at a time to be announced later. A sport's program will include such events as a baseball game between the upper and lower mills at Donora, quoit pitching and racing.

Tuesday night of this week will be the night of the weekly Bingville dance at the park and a good attendance is looked for. On Wednesday St. Francis' Catholic church of Finleyville has the park rights engaged for a private picnic. It is expected that this picnic will be one of the most interesting of the numerous church affairs of the season at Eldora.

The second summer dance of the Alpha Phi Beta fraternity of Charleroi will be held on Thursday evening and indications are it will attract a large attendance.

Townsend Reunion

On Saturday, August 21, the Townsends, an old Quaker family, met in a reunion and spent a very enjoyable day. There were 73 present and these came from various parts of the county. The reunion was held in Fuller's grove, Perryopolis, and everything had been arranged so as to give a most interesting and instructive program. The family assembled at 10:30 a. m. and after enjoying games of various kinds, dinner was served.

After dinner, a history of the family which had been prepared by Mrs. Martha Townsend Gerard of Uniontown, was read by M. E. Townsend. The history of the family in this county dates from Richard Townsend who came to Pennsylvania in 1682 with Wm. Penn. Since that time the family has scattered to various parts of the country.

Perhaps the most unique representation was that of the heirs of Daniel Townsend, all of whom were present. These consisted of G. W. Townsend of Perryopolis; Mrs. Elizabeth Townsend Strickler, Scottdale; Aaron Townsend, Kenonee, Ill.; Harry Townsend, Columbus, Ohio.

Besides the history, many witty and interesting toasts were rendered. About 5 o'clock the pictures of those present were taken and goodbyes were said and all went home feeling that they had spent a pleasant day and resolving to be present at the next reunion.

Interesting Lecture

Sabbath afternoon at 3 o'clock in Kelly's hall, an interested audience listened to Pastor John Hettenbaugh for over an hour. His subject was "The Time of the End; not the End of Time." Reading the 12th chapter of David as his text, and using a chart, he began with Adam showing how a perfect man sinned, and it took a perfect man to redeem the race. Dividing the dispensations into three parts, A, B, C. He showed how God had, all down through the ages been selecting a people, His bride, which in due time would fulfill the Abrahamic covenant, blessing all the families of the earth.

This was the first of a series of meetings. All those present expressed themselves as more than pleased with the message received.

ROUND UP OF KENTUCKY NIGHT RIDERS

Rockport, Ky., Aug. 23—Over eighty men indicted as alleged "Night Riders" or "Possum Hunters," members of gangs who during the early summer terrorized certain sections of this country, must appear in court today for trial. A number of the accused men were indicted on the testimony of a woman whose relatives had been lashed by the "Possum Hunters." Many of the indicted men are prominent citizens. Deacons, doctors and prominent churchmen are included, but they protest their innocence.

JEWELERS SHOW WAY TO WEAR GEMS

New York, Aug. 23—The biggest display of jewelry, silverwear and gems ever made in New York is a feature of the annual convention of the American Retail Jewelers' Association, which opened today at the Grand Central Palace. In addition, a style show, with living models wearing jewelry worth thousands of dollars will be given each day this week, to show the American people how to wear jewelry. It is claimed by the jewelers that many Americans need to cultivate the art of wearing jewelry, particularly the appropriateness and harmony of the various adornments.
